Irthlingborough's Monday Club welcomes local MP

Andy Sawford, MP for Corby and East Northamptonshire, visited the College Street Centre in Irthlingborough recently to take part in the centre's Monday Club.

The MP attended at the invitation of the Mayor of Irthlingborough, Cllr Bob Nightingale, to meet with Club regulars and with the volunteers who run it.

Mr Sawford was introduced to around thirty local elderly residents who told him why they come to the Club each week and how much they enjoy the food and activities. Mr Sawford congratulated the Club organisers, Janice Childs and Bernice Tucker and thanked them for the important contribution that they and all the volunteers make to the community in Irthlingborough.

The Monday Club runs from 9.30am to 2.30pm every Monday and offers activities including gentle exercise and music. Mr Sawford learnt that visitors go each week to discuss local history and other topics, and he had a lively conversation about the history of Irthlingborough Schools with former pupils who had attended in the 1930s. The Centre receives donations and makes a small charge for the Monday Club. Bangers and mash were being served to residents and Mr Sawford and the Mayor joined in singing Happy Birthday to one of the Club's regulars.

Afterwards, Mr Sawford said: "It was great to see how much everyone was enjoying the Monday Club. This is ideal for anyone who feels in need of contact with other town residents and wants to enjoy good food and company. I was pleased to have the opportunity to congratulate all the volunteers because without them the Monday Club and the other activities at the College Street Centre would not be possible."

Town Mayor, Cllr Bob Nightingale is a long-standing trustee of the Irthlingborough Old People's Welfare Association, which has run the College Street Centre since 1978.

He said: "We have a great community in Irthlingborough and I am very proud to support the activities at the College Street Centre, which are much enjoyed by older residents in the town. It was nice to welcome the MP to see the Centre at first hand and I was pleased that he took the time to go around and meet everyone."

If anyone would like to find out more about the activities at the centre, call 01933 651241.

Health & Safety Warning!

Do you have difficulty budgeting on a low income, have unmanageable arrears or debt? A sudden expense or emergency? Have you been tempted by illegal money lenders?

Loan sharks come in all shapes and sizes – they may look no different to anyone else and can appear to be the answer to your prayers. And they operate within East Northamptonshire. However, when you take the bait, when you're hooked, lives can be ruined.

The Illegal Money Lending Team works in partnership with Trading Standards services across England to prosecute loan sharks and to support the people and communities that are affected by them. As of December 2013, they have secured 188 years of prison sentences, wiped out £42 million worth of debt and helped over 23,000 victims of loan sharks.

The Community Law Service in Rushden, working in partnership with East Northants Council, is committed to serving the area in raising awareness of this violent crime against desperate and vulnerable people and empowering them to seek help and assistance. They can also help you explore other options available in dealing with your financial situation.

During week commencing 16th June, an awareness event will be held offering free, independent and confidential advice and information on reporting loan sharks, budgeting and debt, including payday loans, benefit entitlement and housing law.

Please drop in at 32 The High Street, Rushden (next door to Argos), Monday 16th–Friday 20th June, between 10am and midday, for a quick chat and to arrange an appointment if needed.

Alternatively, phone (01933) 313020, or e-mail rushden@communitylawservice.org.uk.

New dog bins at local nature reserve

Extra bins will make the reserve more enjoyable

Two new dog bins were installed at Irthlingborough Lakes and Meadows nature reserve last week, due to popular demand from local residents.

The Wildlife Trust for Bedfordshire, Cambridgeshire and Northamptonshire has managed the reserve with funding from the Heritage Lottery Fund and SITA Trust since 2012. Since then they have been working to improve the site for wildlife and make it a more enjoyable place for people to visit.

Incidences of anti-social behaviour have fallen over the last two years but dog fouling has remained an issue at the site. Many local residents have complained about the problem, saying that some owners do not pick up after their dog.

The bins at the reserve are provided and emptied by East Northamptonshire Council, with the help of Councillor Sylvia Hobbs, who has funded one of the bins.

Ian Wilson, Reserves Officer at The Wildlife Trust, said: "We hope that the bins will be convenient for most dog walkers that visit the reserve. One of the bins can be found on the path from Randall Close in Irthlingborough, where it joins the old railway, and the other is located along the Greenway cycle path where it crosses the old railway."

"The bins should encourage dog owners to clean up after their dog which will help to make the reserve an even more enjoyable place to visit for everyone."

Why should we grow our own food?

By Samantha Brown, Oundle Gardens and Trees Ltd

Growing your own fruit and veg has to be one of the most rewarding aspects of gardening. Once you have tasted your own produce, there's no going back, and the 'Grow Your Own' movement shows no sign of slowing down.

At the last count there were around 160,000 tenanted allotment plots in the UK, and another 95,000 eager allotmenters on waiting lists. If you add to that the number of people growing food at home, in the garden or in pots on the patio, the numbers increase enormously. Millions of allotment holders and home gardeners can't be wrong. So why is this trend continuing to go from strength to strength? Well, there are plenty of reasons...

The first one is health. When you grow your own food you know what you are eating. In an ideal world we wouldn't use pesticides or any other chemicals in food production, but large-scale agriculture just wouldn't be able to survive without them. When you are growing small-scale food crops you can dispense with all of that. No need to get the sprayer out; just take precautions. For example, if you are growing brassicas, put some netting over them and the caterpillars won't get a look in. No need to use synthetic fertilisers – compost is a much better answer for maximum nutrition and to build up soil health. You might be interested to know that today's crops, grown under intensive cropping regimes, are far less nutritious than they were during and immediately after the war. On average they contain around 50% less calcium, and a whopping 76% less copper, than they did in the 1940s, and it's a similar story for other mineral nutrients too. That's largely because we don't build soil health. The more nutritious your soil, the more nutritious your food will be.

Another health benefit of growing your own food is exercise. Gardening generally isn't regarded as an aerobic activity (unless you are digging at a rate of knots, or running across the garden with a wheelbarrow full of compost), but it is a good muscle and bone building exercise. It will make you strong and it also burns calories.

Another good reason is taste. Food that is grown in healthy soil, and then picked and eaten as soon as possible, tastes better. For instance, tomatoes these days are grown in a soil-less solution containing selective nutrients and they taste completely different from tomatoes grown in a healthy soil, with the full complement of minerals and trace elements. Sweetcorn is soooooo much sweeter when it has come straight from the plant to your plate.

One of the main aims in growing food should be for seasonality. There's something deeply exciting about the anticipation of harvests and the banquets to follow. When the first warm spring days show us the promise of the season to come, I know that soon I will have abundant spears of asparagus to eat with my new potatoes, garnished with my very own chopped mint. Furthermore, isn't variety the spice of life? By growing your own food, you can have some of the things which the supermarkets don't stock. Did you know that there are over 2,000 varieties of apple that can be grown in the UK, and yet, in the supermarket, you'd be lucky to get six or seven varieties available at any one time? And, of course, that's the same for other fruit and veg too. Purple carrots anyone?

Being an old skinflint, I like to save money. You all must have noticed how expensive fruit and veg is lately. Even potatoes! The cost of a few large baking potatoes is around £3. For that same £3 you can buy a bag of about 30 seed potatoes, each of which will produce at least five more potatoes – that's about 150 potatoes! Sums for things like lettuce are even simpler – you can buy a packet of 1,000 seeds for about 50p. Nobody can eat that much lettuce!

Not only is home-grown food good for us, it's better for the planet too. Fewer food miles are needed to feed you if you have produced your own fruit and veg. Fewer chemicals need to be made (to control pests, weeds and diseases; and for fertiliser use). Less energy has been used to refrigerate and store the food in the long, carefully controlled supply chain.

Sometimes, when I'm out on the veg plot with the kids, and their faces light up at the sight of the first red strawberries, or they are pulling up the cabbages instead of the weeds, I realise that it's our job to educate the next generation when it comes to growing. Children need to know where food comes from and they can best understand this by seeing that the food they eat didn't come from a packet, or a cellophane wrapper, but rather from the soil. Even the meat we eat originated in the soil.

Of all the good reasons for growing your own food, the one that'll give you the biggest buzz is pride. When you've grown your own, good looking, great tasting food, whatever that may be (perhaps you produced the earliest, sweetest new potatoes; the largest, juiciest onions; the most intensely flavoured, freshest raspberries) that's something to be really proud of. And you did it with your own two hands!

Now, where did I put that spade?

Summer flavours

By Catherine Burbage

Talk about spoilt for choice! When I started looking for inspiration for a recipe for the first instalment of an occasional food column, it really brought home to me what a fabulous area for great food the Nene Valley is.

Not only do we have the pick of pubs, restaurants and cafes with talented, imaginative chefs, but we also have fantastic local food producers for when we're cooking at home.

There are some great open-air events coming up and beautiful countryside to make the most of over the summer. What better than to combine local cheese, produced from goats who spend their days at the NeneView Dairy gazing down to the river itself, with a recipe that will pack up well for a posh picnic, make a lovely summer supper, or a lunchbox treat to brighten up a busy day at work.

I'm a busy home cook who thinks it's really worth making a little extra effort so that myself and those I cook for can eat for joy, pleasure and lasting health every day.

If you're a local food producer, have a cooking conundrum or need a bit of inspiration for a particular ingredient or occasion, do get in touch with me and I might be able to feature you in this column or in my blog: email: nenevalleyfood@btinternet.com www.nenevalleyfood.com

GAZING GOAT SAVOURY CHEESECAKE

Serves: 6-8

Base:

75g self-raising flour
Pinch of salt
50g butter
25g porridge oats
25g walnut, finely chopped
About 1 tbsp milk

Filling:

2 large eggs
125ml whole milk
150g NeneView Dairy Redlands or Cobbler's Choice goat's cheese
150g soft goat's cheese
1 tsp mustard powder
Pinch of cayenne pepper
50g (about 1 thick slice) breadcrumbs or ground walnuts
Couple of handfuls of snipped chives

Roasted tomato salad:

About 250g cherry tomatoes

1 small onion, roughly chopped
2 garlic cloves
Olive oil
Salt/pepper
Chives or basil
Leaves to garnish

Method

- Preheat the oven to 180°C/350°F/gas mark 6. Line the base of a lightly greased 18cm loose-bottomed tin with greaseproof paper.
- Sift the flour and salt into a large bowl and rub in the butter until the mixture resembles fine breadcrumbs. Add the oats and walnuts. Bring the dough together with the milk, using more or less as required.
- Press into the base of the prepared tin to cover the base completely. Cover with greaseproof paper and baking beans and bake for ten minutes. Remove the baking beans and paper and bake for a further five minutes. Reduce the oven temperature to 140°C/300°F/gas mark 3.
- Warm the milk in a saucepan until just below boiling. Over a low heat stir in the cheeses, mustard, cayenne, breadcrumbs and freshly ground black pepper (no need to add salt as the cheese has enough in it already), then cool slightly. Separate the eggs and beat the egg yolks into the cheese mixture.
- Whisk the egg whites until stiff and fold into the cheese mixture gently using a metal spoon. Pour the mixture into the prepared tin. Bake for 20 minutes, then cover with foil to avoid browning too much and bake for a further 20 minutes, or until lightly set. Turn the oven off and leave the cheesecake to cool in it for 30 minutes or so.

To make the salad:

Toss all the ingredients (except chives or basil) in olive oil and roast in the oven on a shelf above the cheesecake for around 20 minutes. When the tomatoes and onions are soft, remove from the oven and allow to cool. Garnish with chives or basil.

Gardening is also a healthy exercise

OUNDLE FOOD FESTIVAL

Oundle Food Festival is back for the fifth year but this time it's even bigger and better. The Street Market will take place in Oundle town centre from 8.30am-4.30pm on Saturday 5th July with over 70 stallholders and a Park and Ride service. There will be producers of local gin and wine, smoked fish, handmade cheese, gluten-free spice mixes, bison, venison, chutneys, pickles, chilli products, vegan food, cider and ginger beer, fudge and flapjacks. Many of the vendors use only locally sourced ingredients, adamant that they add a distinctive edge to their products, including the BBC Midlands' Best Street Food award winner, Squisito (meaning exquisite in Italian).

The Small Bread Company, situated in the heart of Oundle market square, will be celebrating the opening of its new cookery school during the Oundle Food Festival and will be hosting a series of cookery demonstrations both during the Street Market itself and the following week. These include a Bake Real Bread workshop (including lunch) and Make the Perfect Pastry where you can learn how to make the perfect pastry and avoid the dreaded 'soggy bottom'.

Award-winning baker and writer, Dan Lepard will be returning to Oundle for two demonstrations: Easy Bread Making in the morning and Birthday Cake Baking in the afternoon. Trendalls Butchers will also be attending, to demonstrate the fundamentals of pork butchery.

Food Safety Week 2014 – it's all about the poultry

Don't wash raw chicken – that's the message from the Food Standards Agency (FSA) this Food Safety Week 16th–22nd June.

Each year, the FSA champions a key food safety message and this year East Northamptonshire Council is showing its support of the advice to not wash poultry before cooking.

One of the main ways to get and spread campylobacter (pronounced cam-pie-lo-bac-tor) is by touching raw chicken. In particular, washing raw chicken can spread campylobacter by splashing it onto work surfaces, clothing and cooking equipment.

Campylobacter is the most common cause of food poisoning in the UK. You can't see it, smell it or even taste it on food, but if it affects you, you won't forget it. It can result in abdominal pain, severe diarrhoea and sometimes vomiting. In certain cases it can also lead to irritable bowel syndrome, reactive arthritis and Guillain-Barré syndrome – a serious condition of the nervous system. At its worst, it can kill.

Protect yourself and those that you care for by not washing chicken. Wash your hands and utensils in warm soapy water after touching raw chicken, and cook it until it's steaming hot all the way through, and the juices run clear.

Help us during Food Safety Week 2014 by:

- Spreading the word about not washing raw chicken
- Visiting www.food.gov.uk/chicken for top tips on how to prepare and cook chicken safely

- Joining in conversations on twitter.com/foodgov or www.facebook.com/FoodStandardsAgency

What happens to your food waste?

Some residents in East Northamptonshire have been concerned that their food waste is not being recycled properly, as they have seen it emptied into a wheeled bin that looks like a normal rubbish bin. Read on to find out what really happens when your food waste is collected.

Your small silver food caddy is to use day to day in the kitchen. The larger green food caddy (with a secure lid to keep animals out) is for putting out for weekly collection by the refuse/recycling crews.

The contents of your green food caddy are emptied into a wheeled bin (called a 'slave' bin) and once that bin is full, it's attached to the recycling vehicle for emptying into a special pod that is just for food waste – as shown in the picture with this story.

The entire contents of the pod then go to a local facility that produces a gas (methane) that is used to generate electricity. The residue left after the gas production is used to make a fertilizer that is used by farmers.

Guidelines for food caddy recycling:

YES PLEASE

- raw/cooked meat/fish (including bones)
- leftover food

- fruit/vegetable peelings
- teabags and coffee grounds
- eggshells
- cooking oil and fats (soak oils into newspapers)
- nutshells

NO THANKS

- any packaging
- plastic bags
- non-food products
- garden waste

Washing raw chicken can spread germs by splashing. Thorough cooking will kill any bacteria present

Your food waste caddy is emptied into a 'slave' wheeled bin which is then emptied into the pod on the truck

Thrapston sisters leap to raise over £500 for local church

Keira and Leia West of Thrapston have raised over £500 for St James Church in Thrapston, by leaping off a 125-foot tower at the Body Flight Centre, Bedford.

St James Church is currently raising funds to support on-going renovation work to the historical church. Recently the church's heating system broke down and the two sisters wanted to help raise some money in support of the repairs.

Leia, aged eight, said; "My friends at school said that I might die, but I knew it was just a matter of throwing myself off a really high building, safely."

Ten-year-old Keira said: "My friends said they would pay me to watch me throw myself off a tall building."

"I went first and I was really scared, so I closed my eyes, thought of the people who sponsored me and threw myself off the building."

St James is the historic parish church in the centre of Thrapston. The present building has been a beautiful place of worship since the 13th century. Today, it is a growing, welcoming, biblically-based family church with both formal and informal services at 9.30am. Particularly popular is the Family Worship on the first Sunday of the month. If you would like further information about services, activities and special events please contact the Rev Charles Jefferson by telephone on 01832 730814. <http://www.oundledeanery.org.uk/parishes/thrapston>.

Will the show go on in Oundle?

Oundle may be without its pantomime for the first time in over 20 years next year.

Oundle Amateur Theatrical Society has been unable to fill the key roles of Director and Musical Director for its planned production of Mother Goose in January 2015. The group has staged annual, traditional pantomimes in the town since 1986.

"We pride ourselves on bringing professional quality shows to a local audience," said Chris Sandles, Producer of Mother Goose, "so we are looking for volunteers with the right experience to help us deliver what our audience expects. Auditions are scheduled for September, but we can't plan effectively until we have our production team in place."

Prospective Directors and Musical Directors – and others looking to get involved or build their experience in musical theatre – are encouraged to contact Oundle Amateur Theatrical Society on 01832 280198.

Volunteers thanked at local care home

Volunteers at a local care home run by national charity MHA were thanked as part of national Volunteers' Week.

Rushden Park Nursing Home in Melloway Road, Rushden held a Cocktail Evening to mark Volunteers' Week, which ran from 1st–7th June. The home has around 30 volunteers, who assist in everything from befriending to helping with activities and fundraising.

Home Manager, Teresa Thompson said: "Our volunteers are absolutely priceless and enhance the work of our staff so much. They help us to make the lives of our residents as fulfilling as possible, and volunteers often say it works both ways, because they find the experience deeply fulfilling as well."

Volunteering can also be a great way of enhancing your CV if you're job hunting or looking to take a course in social care or medicine. If you're a musician or entertainer, then it can also be a way of gaining an appreciative audience and getting more performing experience.

Rushden Park is part of MHA, the national charity providing accommodation, care and support services to 16,000 older people. The charity holds the Queen's Diamond Jubilee Volunteering Award. Last year, two volunteers – Sandra Clack of Stones Place in Lincoln and Roy Pritchard of Hall Grange in Surrey – represented MHA's 4,000 volunteers when they met the Queen and Prince Philip in a reception at St James' Palace.

Oundle resident celebrates 102nd birthday

John Farrar and Kathleen Mumford

Spire Homes resident, Kathleen Mumford, celebrated her 102nd birthday last month with her fellow residents at Strongland's Court in Oundle and members of staff from Spire Homes, who organised a party to celebrate.

John Farrar, Chairman of Spire Homes – which is a member of the Longhurst Group of companies – presented Kathleen with a bunch of flowers on behalf of the housing association. "It's wonderful to be celebrating such a special birthday!" said John. "It's clear that everyone here has a great deal of love for Kath and I feel very privileged to be here to mark the occasion."

Kath has enjoyed living in Oundle for more than 30 years, making her Spire's oldest resident.

A retired professional ballet dancer and teacher, Kath enjoyed a prestigious career teaching in London, Wales, Bristol and Peterborough. After suffering a heart attack at 68, she stopped dancing but continued to teach in her home.

She said: "It really was fate that I moved to Strongland's Court. I'd been looking for a new home that was a bit more affordable and, in conversation, someone told me about sheltered housing. It seemed like an ideal situation – I was still independent but there was support on hand if I needed it. When I went to look at housing, there was Strongland's Court, and I moved in within a fortnight of starting my search!

"I'm so glad I moved here. I've made some fantastic friends and it's really touching that people have gone to so much effort to celebrate my birthday with me. You need to make sure you can have a laugh. I'd recommend sheltered accommodation to anyone, it really is a fantastic way to live."

Sharing Heritage: Serve celebrates £10,000 Heritage Lottery Fund grant

Serve is one of the first groups in the UK to receive a Heritage Lottery Fund (HLF) Sharing Heritage grant.

An exciting project called Here Be Dragons – which will be led by Serve and take place in Brigstock, Oundle and Wellingborough – has been given £10,000 to research, record and celebrate Northamptonshire's folklore, myths and legends.

Sharing Heritage is a new funding programme to help people across the UK explore, conserve and share all aspects of the history and character of their local area.

Serve, a local charity based in Rushden, works with older people and adults with disabilities to help support their independence and wellbeing. The project will draw on the knowledge of local people, including older people, to potentially discover previously unrecorded or forgotten stories about Northamptonshire through a series of workshops, talks and field trips led by local author and folklore expert, Dr Peter Hill.

Accompanying Dr Hill will be Northamptonshire folk musician Paul Rogers, who will use the information to compose and record new songs inspired by what he has heard, and reflecting how folklore was previously passed down through generations.

This will be followed by a performance of the new compositions in each of the communities involved. At the concerts, a free CD of the songs, and a booklet on the project will be available to participants, their families and the wider community.

Commenting on the award, Dr Cate Carmichael, Serve's Chief Executive Officer, said: "It's great that we have been awarded this grant and we can't wait to get started. We love where we live and know there's so much more to discover about our past. We are all really excited about telling other people about our findings and sharing our heritage and history with them."

Vanessa Harbar, Head of the Heritage Lottery Fund East Midlands, said: "Sharing Heritage is a wonderful opportunity for communities to delve into their local heritage and we are delighted to be able to offer this grant so that Here Be Dragons – Myths and Legends in Northamptonshire, can embark on a real journey of discovery. Heritage means such different things to different people, and HLF's funding offers a wealth of opportunities for groups to explore and celebrate what's important to them in their area."

Disused factory transformed into affordable homes

The site of the old Sunlight Laundry in Wellingborough has been brought back to life, thanks to the imagination and investment of a local, affordable housing provider.

Developed by emh group, the properties just off Short Lane comprise 23 mixed units, available for rent, sale or on a part buy, part rent basis.

The £2 million scheme includes a variety of houses, flats and bungalows. It has transformed what was an abandoned eyesore into something truly needed by the local community.

Chan Kataria, Chief Executive of emh group, said: "Laundry Close is a wonderful example of how successful regeneration can breathe life back into a disused part of town. It is part of emh group's wider regeneration programme and our commitment to build 300 new homes a year across the East Midlands."

Mayor of Wellingborough, Cllr Graham

Lawman, has visited the new scheme, part of which has been christened Laundry Close in honour of its history.

Cllr Lawman said: "It is a pleasure to welcome the new residents to this lovely development. This scheme is a terrific example of successful partnership working, which the council hopes to continue in future developments. It's great to see a derelict site developed for the benefit of the town."

As well as emh group's own resources, the scheme is funded by the Homes & Communities Agency, public subsidy from Wellingborough Borough Council and the Recycled Grant Fund. The properties, achieving Code for Sustainable Homes Level 3, were designed by Morton Wykes Kramer Architects and were built by VE Parrott Ltd.

The scheme was completed in March 2014. If you would like to apply to live in one of these new homes, please contact emh homes on 0300 123 6000.

New garden maintenance services for local charity

Serve Northamptonshire, a local charity which has supported the needs and aspirations of older people for the past 33 years, have announced that they are expanding what they do to help those aged over 18 years in need of local, trustworthy garden maintenance services.

Announcing the new scheme, which includes weeding, as well as hedge and grass cutting, Dr Cate Carmichael, CEO said: "We have listened to older people in our community, and believe this exciting new scheme will make a real difference to their wellbeing, by helping them enjoy their gardens, and also because any additional funds generated will be ploughed back into our wellbeing activities."

The Wellbeing team in Rushden are already making plans to enhance what they offer. Currently, the Volunteering and Wellbeing Centre, in Church Street, offers a range of activities such as yoga, computer skills, crafts & games, pub lunches and very soon a Friendship Club.

But according to Liz Clarke, Serve's Wellbeing Manager said: "We have great plans to expand our activities at the Centre to assist older people in achieving more independence and wellbeing, and we hope to have a lot of fun!"

Serve offers a range of services including minibus outings, a transport scheme, handyperson scheme, personal & domestic home care, care for those leaving hospital and now a gardening maintenance service.

For more information on the range of services and to receive further information on the gardening service, please contact the Serve reception on 01933 315555.

Barnwell Hospital

ALMSHOUSES AND HOSPITALS IN EAST NORTHAMPTONSHIRE

The most likely institution to come to mind when pre-Welfare State provision for those in need is mentioned is the workhouse, as described by Charles Dickens in Oliver Twist. However, other systems of care were in existence for centuries before workhouses. Prior to Henry VIII dissolving the monasteries monks looked after those in need. Lords of the Manor and some craft guilds also provided for the needy. With the loss of the religious establishments, the problems of responding to poverty and vagrancy grew. During the 1500s a number of Acts of Parliament were passed to deal with these and to encourage the wealthy to provide for the poor.

East Northamptonshire towns and villages have a number of alms or bede houses (sometimes referred to as hospitals). Each charity and its founder has an interesting history. They ranged in size from one or two cottages – for example the Medbury Charity, Islip – to larger groupings such as Cornforth Homes, Kings Cliffe. The Bede House, founded in 1423 by Archbishop Henry Chichele at Higham Ferrers, is one of the earliest such charities in the area. Bedesmen are still appointed, but no longer live in the Bede House.

Nicholas Latham, Rector of Barnwell for 51 years, gave money for many charitable works including hospitals at Barnwell and Oundle. Barnwell Hospital was founded in 1601 (see photograph). Originally there were eleven residents and a warden. The houses were rebuilt in 1873 and are grouped around a courtyard with a chapel. Each inhabitant had a black woollen gown every two years, allowances for fuel and laundry, and a pension. They had to attend all services at the parish church and daily prayers in the chapel. There were rules about conduct and they could be fined or expelled for breaking them.

Potential almshouse residents

usually had to be nominated as 'deserving'. Those admitted to the Pickering and Byrd almshouses, Titchmarsh (founded 1756) had to be a maid or widow of good report and of sober religious conversation; to be clean, free of infection, not visit ale houses, play cards or dice; and if they married they had to leave the alms-house.

The building of almshouses continued into the twentieth century, for instance Louisa Lilley Almshouses, Irthlingborough (1930). Some charities have existed for 400 years and still provide accommodation, a testament to the forward thinking of their founders and trustees.

Almshouses are to be found at Kings Cliffe, Oundle, Barnwell, Titchmarsh, Islip (now a private house), Higham Ferrers, Rushden and Irthlingborough.

The Friends of St Mary's, Higham Ferrers

The Friends of St Mary's charity was launched recently. To mark the occasion the Deputy Lord Lieutenant of Northamptonshire, Mrs Deirdre Newham, planted a replacement Yew tree in the churchyard before giving a speech to an audience of over 150 guests in the Bede House.

Mrs Newham was deputising for Lady Juliet Townsend, the Charity's Patron, who was prevented from attending due to illness.

The Friends' Trust was conceived to assist in the preservation of the magnificent Grade 1 listed buildings: St Mary's Church, The Bede House and the Chantry Chapel. The Friends limit their support to the exterior preservation, repair, maintenance and restoration of these buildings in order to protect their heritage for future generations to enjoy.

The present church was founded by the charter of Henry III in about 1220, with the tower being the last part of the first phase to be completed in about 1250. A large proportion of the original church survives. The next phase of building, in about 1320, was the widening of the north aisle and the replacement of the nave arcade, to allow for the insertion of the Lady Chapel. Additional windows were added to the chancel and the south aisle.

In 1631 the spire and part of the tower collapsed, and then repaired shortly afterwards. This was the last work performed on the fabric of the church. Two restorations occurred during the 19th century, but both seem to have been sympathetically performed.

The launch was supported by the local Waitrose store, with the audience entertained by a musical trio consisting of Rev Paul Needle, Graham Newell and Nigel White. The Chair of the Trustees, Barry Matson, welcomed the guests, which included the Mayors of Higham Ferrers and Rushden, and the recently collated Vicar of the parish, Father Richard Stainer.

The Children and Families Act, passed in March 2014, seeks to streamline the cumbersome Statementing process into a single assessment and support plan: the Education, Health and Care Plan. The act includes changes to the support and services children and young people with special educational needs and disabilities will receive. These changes will come into force on 1 September 2014. It is important that parents are aware of the changes that lie ahead. Kate is happy to share her extensive knowledge of the statementing process with you. Kate has worked in many educational establishments far and wide and will be a fount of knowledge. There will be a Q&A session also.

Numbers will be limited. Book by telephoning or emailing the contact addresses above.

Local archer is European champion

Local recurve archer Bradley Denny (Archers of Raunds) has been representing Great Britain in the European Outdoor Youth Archery Championships this May, competing with over 300 archers from all over Europe in Slovenia's capital city, Ljubljana.

Brad, Joe and Jack swept past the Czech Republic 6-0, Russia 6-2 and the Netherlands 6-2 to land a gold medal match against Turkey. And there was never any real doubt as to who was going to take gold, as Great Britain eased to a 5-3 win.

Archery GB's Performance Coach, Songi Woo, said: "It was a stunning 59 end to land the gold and become champions of Europe."

Local interest in this event was also provided by John Bull (Targetcraft Archers) who was competing as part of the GB under 20 team in the compound bow discipline. Shooting in the team event, John reached the gold medal final against Sweden, who beat the GB team into silver medal spot. And John just missed out on bronze in the individual event, finishing in fourth place.

Local champs 'Rally for Bally'

Oundle Tennis Club will join the Rally for Bally on Sunday 15th June, starting at 1pm. The public is invited to the Club Finals Day, Rally for Bally and Father's Day Beer & BBQ events.

The local club is joining forces with the nation of tennis in raising funds for the Rally for Bally cause, in honour of Elena Baltacha. The young tennis star died on 4th May after a long battle with liver disease and cancer. Fans are invited to come and watch the local club championship matches, enjoy refreshments, local beer and burgers on the BBQ. A donation of £5 per person is requested with proceeds donated to the Rally for Bally fund by the Oundle Tennis Club. Rally for Bally supports two charities: The Royal Marsden Cancer Charity and the Elena Baltacha Academy of Tennis.

John Whight, Oundle Tennis Club's Tournament Organiser said: "Our club championships are held annually and this year our finals day will be held on 15th June in common with many Rally for Bally events being held all around the country. Despite her health issues Bally was always a fighter and we expect our finalists to do their best in her honour.

"All funds raised will be split between the Royal Marsden Cancer Charity and the Elena Baltacha Foundation, which supports the Elena Baltacha Academy of Tennis. Come and watch the tennis and enjoy beer and burgers."

Chess corner

The Silver King Northamptonshire League has now concluded all games and final positions in Division II are available.

Corby were convincing winners with an eight point lead over Chess Mates C. Rushden B & Oundle School just failed to overtake Chess Mates C and settled for sharing third place, after being neck and neck all season.

At a local level, Rushden are now close to concluding their internal championship and thoughts are turning to the summer. Sun, sea and chess will be occupying the minds of players over the next few months.

Rushden have initiated a drive to encourage new players to come into the game and are keen to take on people who have little or no knowledge of chess, to introduce them to this exciting game. Why not put away your Playstation on a Monday evening and engage in the battle tactics between the white and black armies. Experience the 'no quarter given' fight that is chess in the comfortable surrounds of Rushden Bowls Club. Enjoy the well-stocked bar and a pint of real ale, or whatever takes your fancy.

We meet up from 7.15pm onwards and are a friendly bunch.
