NEWS IN BRIEF

ENCs needs you!

East Northants Community Services' new homeless accommodation in Rushden is now open – but they still need more volunteers.

The new property to reopen homeless accommodation, which was previously based at the Full Gospel Church, is in Duck Street, Rushden, and opened on Tuesday 6th April.

The primary need is for individuals who can volunteer some of their time on a weekend day (it does not have to be every weekend) and individuals who can do evenings from 4pm onwards.

They are also looking for individuals who can do collections from supermarkets late evenings and in the mornings, including picking them up, dropping them off to Duck Street and putting items away.

If you are a non-judgmental, passionate, empathetic individual who wants to help those who have been rough sleeping, please email on rushdenhomeless@encs.org.uk or call 01933 312736.

Local charity delivers over £1 million in emergency funding

Between March 2020 and January 2021, Northamptonshire Community Foundation awarded nearly £1.1 million to over 100,000 local residents through their Coronavirus Response and Recovery Fund.

The success of the appeal was the result of the extraordinary generosity from local donors and was delivered across UK community foundations in partnership with the National Emergencies Trust.

The Response and Recovery Fund supported over 300 projects across the county, including those providing food aid and medical supplies, counselling services and mental health support, community transport services, educational activities and general health and wellbeing support.

Funded groups included the Daylight Centre, who provided food supplies in Wellingborough; the Lewis Foundation, who delivered funding packs to cancer patients at Northampton General Hospital and the Eloquent Fold, who provided online art classes to people who were shielding and self-isolating.

The Foundation has recently released an impact report highlighting the difference local groups and charities have made in providing support services during the public health crisis and the types of activities funded. It shows how philanthropy can make a huge difference in providing a lifeline during these very challenging times.

The work on the ground is testimony to the essential and crucial role that voluntary community organisations and small charities have in keeping local communities safe and well. Their work ensured that vulnerable residents got the support they needed and as long as they needed it for.

Victoria Miles DL, CEO of Northamptonshire Community Foundation, said: "We have been overwhelmed with the outpouring of generosity from people who gave to the Foundation's Coronavirus Response and Recovery Fund. Donations came in from individuals, families, businesses, Trusts and Foundations from the very start of the first lockdown.

WILDLIFE NEWS

WORDS BY
ROY BURRELL

The number of sparrows arriving in our garden in their little flocks has gone down from a couple of months ago. That sounds like another of those disappointing but factual headlines, but this time it is not a warning of a species dying (even though the population of cats seems to have increased a little recently).

Adult birds now must keep the eggs and hatchlings warm, and then feed the growing flock. These are next autumn's birds; all nature-lovers are making sure environmental conditions are right for any arrival – or even passing stranger – to feel that they want to settle permanently.

Once the visitor's eye has been caught, or the right smell is hanging around, the area will provide a feeding, or even breeding patch. Onlookers will be curious to know what the attraction is, and find out for themselves; for many that will be by setting up their own territory, to be defended against the unwelcome and unexpected, but for others this is viewing a birds' housing block. It might seem to advertise their presence to predators, but the flocks give security.

Of course sometimes this system for new populations misfires by becoming too successful, producing a population 'explosion', often only when humans change conditions without enough care. For example, great spotted woodpeckers were released into the wild, found it to their liking and became pests, and brown rats took their 'dirty habits' away from the seaside ports where they first landed.

Perhaps the best-known example of good intentions going wrong is the grey squirrel; not a native, it was introduced (in 1876!) to add an extra species to our list. The red squirrel was already established. Unfortunately the grey proved the more adaptable of the two cousins, and their numbers grew rapidly. After trying to improve the wildlife, balance was lost, needing more effort to control the problem. A moral? "Be careful what you wish for!"

GENEALOGY JOTTINGS

WORDS BY
JAN PEARSON

Have you stumbled across GENUKI (www.genuki.org.uk) in your wanderings around the interwebby? It is my "go to" website for finding out about places that I have never heard of, or I am unfamiliar with.

It lists almost every town and parish in the UK and also gives a potted history about each place, which is very helpful for giving you an idea about what there was where your ancestors lived. The name comes from GENealogy in the UK and Ireland. Some of the places mentioned have historical details – do you know why Drummingwell Lane is so called? It is because the town had a number of mineral springs, 'among which is one that emits a singular noise and is called "Drumming Well"'. Now you know!

GENUKI also provides details of where else you might find the records that you are looking for. Not only does it say where parish records might be found, but in some cases, who holds those for Non-Conformists. It may be that your ancestor was a Wesleyan or Baptist, and it is worth bearing in mind that you will not find those baptisms in the Parish Registers.

Chapman codes are also used on GENUKI as well as in other records. These were created by Dr Colin Chapman in the 1970s. Rather than writing the full county name of Northamptonshire or Northants in your records, you can use the code – in this case, NTH. You will find that many resources refer to these codes and so it is as well to be aware of them. A full list may be found on the GENUKI website.

One of the most useful aspects of the website is their Gazetteer. One of the functions is to list nearby places and, if like me, you have ancestors that straddled the border of two different counties, it is helpful to discover that they only walked a couple of miles to work rather than assuming that it was much further across the county borders!

Funding for county youth groups

Two worthy Northamptonshire youth groups have been awarded funding to support outdoor activities from housebuilder Persimmon Homes.

Rushden Sea Cadets and 31st Northampton Boys Brigade were selected to receive the donations through Persimmon's Community Champions fund, which seeks to help local clubs and charities in the areas where the company is building.

Rushden Sea Cadets will receive £360 to deliver essential first aid training for six volunteers, ensuring a

The group is part of the national Marine Society and Sea Cadets charity, and its team of 14 volunteers enable hundreds of local youngsters to learn practical skills such as teamwork and communications as well as introducing them to the joy of sailing.

Based at Queensgrove Methodist Church, 31st Northampton Boys Brigade applied to Community Champions for £400 to buy extra sport and leisure equipment to enable its members to, once again, participate in outdoor activities. The funding from Persimmon will also help to purchase new tents for use in Duke of Edinburgh's Award scheme expeditions.

Claire Dearsley added: "We make two donations of up to £1,000 every month through the Community Champions scheme. For groups working specifically with the under-18s we have recently launched our Building Futures initiative, which will share more than £1million amongst good causes across England, Scotland and Wales."

Landowners encouraged to plant trees

Landowners across the country are being asked to consider planting trees to help tackle the climate and nature emergencies.

The Woodland Trust has just reopened applications for its flagship woodland creation scheme MOREwoods for anyone looking to get trees in the ground in the forthcoming 2021/22 planting season which starts in November.

Senior Project Lead for Woodland Creation at the charity Emma Briggs said: "A common misconception about creating woodland is that you need a lot of land but the beauty of MOREwoods is that you only need half a hectare to be eligible, which is around the size of half a rugby pitch.

"There are so many reasons to plant trees. We are in the grips of a climate and nature emergency and trees are natural warriors in the fight against both. They lock up carbon, enrich soils, improve water quality, slow the flow of flooding, provide shade, shelter and a haven for wildlife and of course they look good too."

Landowners can benefit from the MOREwoods scheme while helping the climate and nature emergencies.

The Woodland Trust's MOREwoods scheme is open to anyone wanting to plant woodland of at least 500 trees on at least half a hectare of land. The charity can visit your site with you to help design the woodland, create a bespoke species mix, help with form filling, supply the agreed trees and protection, and cover up to 75% of costs as well as arrange for contractors to plant the trees.

All trees and shrubs are native broadleaved species that will help local landscapes become more diverse and therefore more resilient to future threats such as pests and disease, and they're all UK sourced and grown.

MOREwoods is funded by Lloyds Bank and Bank of Scotland as part of a broader commitment to plant one million trees a year over the next decade.

"We would like to thank all of those who gave so generously to our fund which enabled us to give to the most vulnerable in our communities who needed help, support and care during this incredibly challenging time."

Northamptonshire Community Foundation is in its 20th anniversary year and is well placed with local grant making and philanthropic expertise to help galvanise and support a quick and effective response to local emergencies now and in the future.

In addition to emergency funding, Northamptonshire

Community Foundation staff were able to safely work from home and additionally gave out £1 million for other activities supporting healthy communities, meaning a total of over £2.5 million was distributed throughout 2020.

Plants that are proven to improve mental health and wellbeing

Happiness is homegrown

A little birdsong, bees or butterflies floating by, the light breeze on your skin, the warmth of the sunshine on your face – there's no denying that gardening is good for the soul. In fact, with a few deep breaths, it is hard to remember why you felt so stressed.

Increasingly absorbed in the digital world, we turn to technology for news, entertainment, hobbies and even social interaction, unknowingly isolating ourselves more than ever before. It is no wonder that we start to feel that we are missing something, feel low and turn inward.

To help ease the worries and tensions of day-to-day life, here are some of the best plants and herbs for improving happiness, whilst giving some insight into how you can make the most of your gardening experience.

Plants and herbs to boost your wellbeing

There are a number of plants and herbs that are scientifically proven to improve your happiness and wellbeing. From aroma to an ability to rid the air of harmful toxins, here are a few of our favourites:

Lavender

Lavender is well renowned for helping us sleep, with a number of sleep-related products including the herb, but did you know that it is also proven to improve your mood too? Floral scents like lavender help to make you feel happier and can actually have a calming effect on your emotions. Lavender is proven to help you ease anxious feelings, so pairing this with the soothing nature of gardening, and you're on to a winner.

Why not grow your own and reap multiple health benefits? Whilst shop-bought products are easily accessible, there's nothing quite like the real thing, and lavender is extremely easy to look after and grow.

Basil

With its ability to vastly improve your mood, much like it improves almost any recipe you add it to, basil is a must if you're looking for a plant that's sure to have you happy in no time. Basil contains linalool, the component that gives the herb its distinct and pleasant aroma, which is proven to have a number of positive effects on the body.

You can secure yourself a basil seed starter kit for less than £10 and start experiencing the benefits it brings in just a few months!

Spider Plants

If you're short on outdoor space, you may be looking for an indoor plant to sit alongside your working setup. In which case, spider plants should be at the top of your list. Spider plants have been proven to be an extremely efficient cleanser of air, with tests showing that the plant is capable of removing up to 90% of potentially cancer-causing chemical formaldehyde from the air. Not only will this plant make you happier, but it'll also make you much healthier!

Low maintenance and easy to grow, spider plants are ideal for gardening novices. Thanks to their cascading long leaves, they're ideal for use in vertical spaces around your home.

Geraniums

Geraniums are well known for having a positive impact on the nervous system. Brewing the leaves of this plant produces a tasty tea that has soothing properties, balancing hormones that cause stress and anxiety. Not only is this plant perfect for making genuinely effective teas, its rich and warming aesthetic is complemented by a mild scent that promotes peace of mind.

Suitable to be grown both in and outdoors, this versatile plant offers you plenty of options. Whether you want to make use of geraniums as a fantastic centrepiece for your bedding plants, or want to give it pride of place in your living room window, the choice is up to you! They simply require at least 6 to 8 hours of sunlight per day and need to be protected from the cold where possible.

Visiting restrictions ease at community and mental health facilities

It has been announced that visiting restrictions at Northamptonshire's community hospitals, hospices and mental health inpatient wards – including Children and Adolescent Mental Health (CAMHS) – are easing. This is in line with the lifting of national lockdown restrictions, and the recent announcement made by the county's two acute Trusts – Kettering General and Northampton General – about the easing of visiting restrictions at the two hospitals.

Northamptonshire Healthcare NHS Foundation Trust (NHFT) provides community and mental health services across the county. NHFT provides inpatient services at a number of community hospitals across Northamptonshire including Brackley Community Hospital, Corby Community Hospital, Isebrook Hospital in Wellingborough and Danetre Hospital in Daventry. NHFT also provides inpatient care at the Cransley and Cynthia Spencer hospices, as well as mental health inpatient care at St Mary's Hospital in Kettering and Berrywood Hospital in Northampton, and CAMHS inpatient facilities at The Burrows and The Sett, both in Northampton.

NHFT is now easing visiting restrictions across its inpatient wards in the county. Each ward or service will manage its own visiting procedure based on individual risk assessments of the ward, the nature of the care provided and the facilities available. Northamptonshire residents seeking to visit their loved ones are advised to get in touch with the relevant ward for more information.

Key visiting guidance for NHFT wards is as follows:

- Visitors should be free of Covid-19 symptoms for 10 days preceding their visit date

- Individuals deemed clinically extremely vulnerable are advised not to visit
- All individuals intending to visit should take a lateral flow test not more than 72 hours before the visit date. Visitors will be required to show evidence of a negative test when they arrive
- All visitors must wash their hands on entry to the visiting area, and wear a suitable face mask or covering. If exempt from wearing a face mask or covering, this must be declared and discussed with the ward team prior to the visit.

Julie Shepherd, Chief Nurse, said: "We know how important visiting is to our patients and service users, and their families, carers and loved ones. Understandably during the Covid-19 pandemic we have had to restrict visiting arrangements to keep everyone safe. We are pleased to be able to start return to visiting in a safe way, now that Covid-19 cases in the county, and the country as a whole, are beginning to stabilise and lockdown restrictions are being lifted.

"Whilst this is very good news, it is still vitally important we continue to prioritise the safety of our service users, staff, visitors, and Northamptonshire residents as a whole. Therefore, we will still ask visitors to take sensible precautions, remember the Government's advice of 'hands, face, space', and to contact the local teams for specific arrangements in each area."

To find out more about NHFT's inpatient services across Northamptonshire, including contact details, visit www.nhft.nhs.uk

YOUR HEALTH – PUSH IT REAL GOOD

WORDS BY CLAIRE SHORT

We're allowed to socialise a bit again and to invite people into the garden. And it's been raining, which means the grass has been growing. And soon we'll be inviting people into our houses again.

You know where I'm going with this, don't you? It's time to get the blinking lawnmower out again, and that means injuries. What's more, with people coming into the house soon, the Hoover will need to come out too. Now, the Hoover isn't quite as lethal as the lawnmower; for one thing the Hoover has a button to start it rather than a piece of string, which is good. But they have a few things in common that mean their proprietors often end up on our treatment couches!

So, having survived this awful virus please don't now cause yourself an injury with one of these two dreadful machines!

Remember:

1. Don't push them too far away from you – keep them close in the way you've not been able to do with your family for the past 12 months.
2. Don't push them at weird angles – keep them straight in front of you.

3. Be careful how you carry them or move them when you've finished.
4. Empty them before they over-fill and break/explode/spontaneously combust.

Ok, so that last one might have been a slight exaggeration, but you know how I feel about the lawnmower. Do be careful – they're both heavy things to lift, and every year we see injuries caused by both.

Enjoy your socialising, but please prepare the house and garden carefully!

Have a socially fun week!

NSPCC Number Day adds up to great fun for local pupils

School children across the East Midlands Academy Trust enjoyed a 'mathstastic' series of activities as part of NSPCC Number Day on Friday 7th May.

Pupils from Stimpson Avenue Academy and Castle Academy in Northampton, Prince William School in Oundle and Orchard Academy in Milton Keynes dressed up in number-themed fancy dress and took part in a range of maths-related lessons as part of the fundraising day.

The NSPCC's nationwide event encourages schools to raise money for the children's charity while also celebrating the importance of maths and numeracy skills.

Stimpson Avenue Academy Head of School Luci Clapton said: "The children really embraced NSPCC Number Day with some fantastic costumes, including a giant calculator and even some dice.

"This was a really fantastic event as it encourages the children to improve their maths skills while also raising money for a really important cause."

The staff at Castle Academy dressed up as a human domino set, pupils at Orchard Academy held a non-uniform day, and Prince William School students took part in a Who Wants to be a Mathionaire? Quiz to see who could achieve 1 million points.

MORE BUSINESSES COULD BENEFIT FROM PARTNERING WITH COLLEGES

Businesses have long worked with education institutions to deliver work experience opportunities, strengthening their ties to industry, and supporting the next generation of skilled workers. However, some businesses remain hesitant to reach out to their local education providers and establish positive working relationships.

Reasons include a lack of access to guidance and support, information on regulations, and time and resource constraints. This hesitancy could mean that businesses are missing out on the significant benefits of partnership for their own organisation.

Over the past decade, Moulton College in Northamptonshire has successfully partnered with businesses across its curriculum. These partnerships provide an avenue for its students to gain industry work experience, network with prospective employers and contribute to a sector they are passionate about. The College has both sought to partner with relevant businesses, and been approached by organisations keen to draw on the invaluable skill set of its students.

Chester House Estate is the College's most recent partnership, providing work experience opportunities across the Estate for students on animal, business, construction, food and nutrition and land-based courses. This £14.5m project funded by North Northamptonshire Council, West Northamptonshire Council and the National Lottery Heritage Fund is set to be complete by the end of this year.

Jack Pishhorn, Business Manager of Chester House Estate says: "One of my first actions when I started working at Chester House was to reach out to Moulton College to seek an educational partnership. We have huge ambitions for the Estate and given the specialist nature of the College's courses, I knew there was a huge opportunity for both of us.

"The future of our Estate is reliant on the talent and passion of the next generation, and I knew that the College's students would thrive in our unique business environment."

In October, an Agriculture Focus Group was set up by the College to ensure the curriculum is consistently meeting the needs of industry. This Group includes farmers from across the county and Farol Ltd, an agricultural dealership, all with a vested interest in upskilling the next generation of young farmers.

Dylan Roberts, Director at Farol says: "What better way for Moulton's students to learn about agriculture than alongside us and with other farmers across Northamptonshire. All education providers need the support from businesses to help equip students for industry, whether that's by offering work experience, or providing professional advice through a focus group.

"By working together, businesses not only tap into a pool of potential employees, but can be assured they are positively influencing the calibre of talent that ultimately joins the sector."

On the back of this focus group, the businesses involved have been working together to develop the UK's first certificate in agricultural technologies that will sit alongside a College course. This certificate provides a unique opportunity for the College's students to stand out to prospective employers.

Moulton College has also established partnerships across its sporting provision. Organisations include Coventry Rugby Club, AFC Rushden & Diamonds and Northamptonshire Titans to name a few. These partnerships not only provide opportunities for students to play alongside professionals, and get a taste for life as a pro athlete, but for top clubs to scout out talent.

John O'Shea, Vice Principal at Moulton College comments: "As an education provider, working with businesses couldn't be more important. It's essential our students have access to industry professionals to improve their prospects, and these partnerships ensure we're identifying all of the means in which we can help them too. "The benefits don't just end there though. In the last year or so, we've already witnessed the incredible outcomes of these partnerships, from developing the UK's first agricultural technology certificate to improving inclusivity in sports. We are committed to increasing our links with local businesses in the future, for the benefit of our students and the local business community."

> PRAWN SLIDERS, CHARCOAL BUNS, JALAPENO WATERCRESS MAYO

Ingredients:

Charcoal Buns

240g strong bread flour
1 tsp salt
2 tsp sugar
130ml whole milk
30ml water
7g dried yeast
1 egg
35g butter, unsalted, room temperature
10g Food-grade activated charcoal
1 egg yolk mixed with 2 tsp milk
1 tbsp white sesame seeds

Prawn Sliders

500g raw prawns, shelled, chopped into 1cm pieces
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 tbsp ginger, minced
3 tbsp coriander, finely chopped
1 jalapeno, finely chopped
1 tbsp lime juice
2 tsp fish sauce
1 tsp caster sugar
1-2 tbsp oil

Jalapeno Watercress Mayo

200g mayonnaise (Japanese is best)
1 jalapeno, seeded
20g watercress
Watercress, lime and cucumber to serve

Method:

1. Begin with the buns. Add the flour, salt and sugar to the bowl of a stand mixer and mix to combine. Warm the milk to body temperature and add the yeast. Whisk in the egg.
2. Add the yeast and egg mixture to the flour and mix, using a dough hook, on medium speed for 2-3 minutes (this can also be kneaded by hand for 5 minutes).
3. Meanwhile, mix the butter with the activated charcoal.
4. Add the butter charcoal mixture piece by piece to the dough whilst mixing on medium speed. Continue
5. to knead on medium high for 8-10 minutes or until it is smooth, silky and comes away from the bowl cleanly. If doing this by hand, the butter will need to be 'slapped' into the dough piece by piece before kneading for 10-15 minutes.
6. Place the dough in an oiled bowl covered with cling film and leave to prove for 60-90 minutes, or until doubled in size.
7. Once proved, knock back the dough and divide into 12 equal portions. Shape into a money bag shape, turn over and roll into balls.
8. Divide between two lined trays, cover once again with oiled cling film and leave to prove again for 40-60 minutes.
9. Meanwhile, preheat the oven 190°C. Once the buns have risen, mix the egg yolk with the milk and gently brush over the tops,

10. Meanwhile, add the ingredients for the mayo to a blender and blitz to a chunky mayo.
11. Serve the buns with the patties and mayo with some extra watercress, cucumber and lime if liked.

9. Heat the oil to medium high in a large frying pan and fry the small ball for 2 minutes or until cooked. Taste, adjust the seasoning and shape the mix into 12 patties. Fry the patties in 2 batches for 2 minutes

10. Meanwhile, add the ingredients for the mayo to a blender and blitz to a chunky mayo.
11. Serve the buns with the patties and mayo with some extra watercress, cucumber and lime if liked.

Local charity's shops are springing back!

The past year has been financially devastating for many businesses and charities are no different. Age UK Northamptonshire's seven shops in Brackley, Burton Latimer, Kettering, Kingsthorpe, Northampton, Rothwell and Thrapston raise vital income that enables the local charity to improve life for thousands of older people every year.

When Shops Co-ordinator Yvette Prior opened the door of the St Giles Street charity shop on 12th April, half a dozen customers were already waiting.

"Our queue wasn't as big as Primark's but it was still a queue," says Yvette. "People tell us they are so glad we are open and Age UK Northamptonshire has provided services and support to older people throughout the coronavirus pandemic. For information on the services or if you would like to support the charity, please visit www.ageuk.org.uk/northamptonshire or call 01604 611200.

they have missed us. Several regular customers called in just to say hello, not necessarily to buy anything."

Diana Da Silva, Manager of Age UK Northamptonshire's Brackley shop, says it was hectic all week. "We are thrilled to welcome back our customers as we have really missed them," she adds.

Chris Duff, Age UK Northamptonshire's Chief Executive, said: "The average bag of donations is worth £12 to Age UK Northamptonshire. Please think of us if you're having a clear out. Your donations are vital to the survival of the charity and help us improve life for older people in the county."

In a 'normal' year Age UK shops provide just short of 15% of the charity's turnover, however during the year of the pandemic they provided just 4.5% due to the enforced closures during the national lockdowns.

As well as needing donations, Age UK Northamptonshire's shops are also short of volunteers. A year of on-off lockdowns, and many older volunteers having to shield, has meant that people's lives have changed over the past year. Around half of the shop volunteers have not been able to come back to work.

"Our amazing volunteers keep our charity shops running like clockwork and are an essential part of everything that we do. If you're interested in joining our team, we'd love to hear from you," says Yvette.

Northamptonshire Heritage Forum

The Forum has existed since 2002 and provides its many members of museums, heritage attractions and historic houses with a friendly network of support and representation for the benefit of its members.

It is run by a dedicated volunteer committee with a Chair, Secretary and Treasurer, and Charles, Ninth Earl Spencer, is its patron.

Membership of the Forum is open to local churches that are heritage attractions as well as places of worship – e.g. for access to training for volunteers and advice on funding sources.

More details are available on Facebook at www.facebook.com/Northamptonshireheritageforum/. A website is also currently under development.

OUNDLÉ FESTIVAL OF LITERATURE EVENTS

> JANET SKESLIEN CHARLES – THE PARIS LIBRARY

Tuesday 25th May, 8pm–9pm.

Venue: Zoom webinar, Tickets £6

Based on the true World War II story of the heroic librarians at the American Library in Paris, this is an unforgettable story of romance, friendship, family, and the power of literature to bring us together.

Paris, 1939: Young and ambitious Odile Souchet has it all: her handsome police officer beau and a dream job at the American Library in Paris. When the Nazis march into Paris, Odile stands to lose everything she holds dear, including her beloved library. Together with her fellow librarians, Odile joins the Resistance with the best weapons she has: books. But when the war finally ends, instead of freedom, Odile tastes the bitter sting of unspeakable betrayal.

Montana, 1983: Lily is a lonely teenager looking for adventure in small-town Montana. Her interest is piqued by her solitary, elderly neighbour. As Lily uncovers more about her neighbour's mysterious past, she finds that they share a love of language, the same longings, and the same intense jealousy, never suspecting that a dark secret from the past connects them.

The Paris Library shows that extraordinary heroism can sometimes be found in the quietest of places.

Miss Dorothy Reeder and her library has inspired this book. She was the unassuming head of The American Library in Occupied Paris who, with her loyal band of supporters, defied the Nazis to smuggle hundreds of books to Jewish readers and send thousands more to Allied soldiers and prisoners of war.

Janet Skeslien Charles is the award-winning author of Moonlight in Odessa and The Paris Library. Her shorter work has appeared in revues such as Slice and Montana Noir. She learned about the history of the American Library in Paris while working there as the programmes manager. She divides her time between Montana and Paris.

> CHARLES SPENCER – THE WHITE SHIP: CONQUEST, ANARCHY AND THE WRECKING OF HENRY I'S DREAM

Thursday 17th June, 8pm–9pm,

Venue: Zoom Webinar, Tickets £6

The sinking of the White Ship on 25th November 1120, 900 years ago last November, is one of the greatest disasters that England has ever suffered. Its repercussions would change English and European history forever.

By 1120, Henry was the most formidable ruler in Europe with an enviable record on the battlefield, immense lands and wealth and unprecedented authority in his kingdoms. Everything he had worked for was finally achieved, and he was ready to hand it on to his beloved son, William Ætheling.

King Henry I sailed for England in triumph after four years of fighting the French. Sailing behind him on the White Ship was the cream of Anglo-Norman society and three of his children, including the only legitimate male heir to the throne. Spoilt and arrogant, William had plied his comrades and crew with drink from the minute he stepped aboard. It was the middle of the night when the drunken helmsman rammed the ship into rocks. There would be only one survivor from the gilded roll call of passengers...

Charles Spencer evokes this tragic and brutal story of the Normans from Conquest to Anarchy. With the heir dead, a civil war of untold violence erupted, a game of thrones which saw families turn in on each other with English and Norman barons, rebellious Welsh princes and the Scottish king all playing a part in a bloody, desperate scrum for power.

Charles Spencer was awarded his degree in Modern History at Magdalen College, Oxford. He was a reporter on NBC's Today show from 1986 until 1995, and is the author of seven books, including the Sunday Times bestsellers Blenheim: Battle for Europe (shortlisted for History Book of the Year 2005, National Book Awards), Prince Rupert: the Last Cavalier, Killers of the King, and To Catch a King (a London Times bestseller).

Guidance for those arranging funerals

Public Health Officials are reminding Northamptonshire residents who are planning a funeral to respect official organisers who are adhering to Covid-19 government guidance when limiting numbers of attendees.

Keeping overall numbers as low as possible at funeral services reduces the risk of spreading Covid-19 and funeral ceremonies until 17th May must have no more than 30 people attending, whether indoors or outdoors. This number does not include anyone working at the event.

The actual number of people permitted to attend depends on how many people can be accommodated safely within the premises with social distancing, and where the venue manager has carried out a risk assessment and taken all reasonable measures to limit the risk of transmission of Covid-19.

New Government guidance for managing funerals officially allows for higher numbers than 30 to attend a service from 17th May. However, venues in Northamptonshire and across the nation will still only be able to host as many people as they can safely accommodate within social distancing guidelines.

The current social distancing guidelines dictate that all attendees at a funeral service are advised to remain 2m away from anyone they do not live with (unless they have formed a support bubble). This means that whilst the Government guidance on attendee numbers may change, it will only affect larger venues which can host larger numbers safely.

Lucy Wightman Joint Director of Public Health, North and West Northamptonshire Councils says: "We are living through very distressing times and I understand that the guidelines are arbitrary and may even feel cruel. However, the regulations are in place for your safety and the safety of all attendees."

"When organising a funeral service, it is really important to remember that indoor venues in Northamptonshire, and across the nation, are still only legally permitted to host as many people as can safely be accommodated within social distancing regulations. Until the social distancing guidelines are reviewed, we must abide by the rules."

New Audi A3 Sportback review

WORDS BY
TIM BARNES-CLAY

Audi's A3 resolutely created the premium compact car segment back in 1996. Now, 25 years on, the fourth generation of this incredibly successful motor is here.

All powerplants in the latest A3 Sportback excite with their commanding torque and erudite running characteristics. In Britain, the premium five-door model comes with a few engine versions, both with quattro and front-wheel drive. The 1.5 TFSI, reviewed here, is fitted with a mild hybrid system (MHEV).

With this unit, the German automaker is continuing its electrification policy in the premium compact sector. A belt alternator starter (BAS) nourishes a 48-volt electrical system that incorporates a lithium-ion battery. During brake applications or when decelerating, the BAS recuperates power and feeds it to the A3's energy storage unit. When driving away and gathering speed, it supports the TFSI with torque. With the MHEV system, the Sportback can glide with its powerplant deactivated for around 40 seconds, helping with better consumption. Got that? Good.

Aside from a fidgety ride around London's rutted roads, I found the Audi A3 Sportback to be a decent alternative to the likes of BMW and Mercedes-Benz. Once out of the clogged urban sprawl and on the motorway, my review car was tranquil, quick, and planted. The unity of the slick-changing manual gearbox and the 1.5-litre engine makes for a confidence-inducing, dynamic and comfy ride.

The suspension is not blatantly soft like some Mercedes models can be, but it doesn't jar you, either. When I swung off the M1 onto snaking rural routes, the A3 did a fine job of ironing out imperfections in the tarmac. And it's on the country bends that you begin to become cognisant of the 35 TFSI S line's assured and flat cornering conduct.

Indeed, behind the tiller, the A3 is immensely competent and doesn't thrust its judiciously punchy aptitude into your face, as much as, say, a similarly powered BMW 1 Series does. The energy is subtle, but there are mountains of shove when you need it. Even completely weighed down with possessions and people, the car never runs out of steam and allows you to get through many miles readily.

How the pandemic has changed what we want from our homes

New research reveals post-Covid demands of house hunters, with homeworking and more outdoor space among top reasons for moving. British homeowners are even now citing better broadband connectivity as a key reason to up sticks and are willing to pay £1,500 more for a house with full fibre broadband.

In a new survey, 72 per cent of people said that Covid was a factor in why they have or are moving home, with more than a third of people naming homeworking needs within their reasons to move.

The poll of 2,000 UK house buyers by broadband provider Zen Internet also discovered that the legacy of the pandemic is not only driving people to buy a new home but has marked a fundamental shift in how they're choosing a property, with more people saying the following factors are now more important than before the pandemic: low crime rate, good schools and local amenities, close to family and an area with better internet services.

Conversely, less important factors are now proximity to travel hubs, commute to work and local hospitality venues.

Working from home and more outdoor space is driving the desire to move.

The need for more space (29 per cent), a bigger garden (19 per cent), being near the countryside (15 per cent) and proximity to family and friends (14 per cent) were amongst the top 10 reasons for wanting to move.

But new ways of working are also driving people to move with people citing the need for a property more suited to long term home working (27 per cent), a home office (nine per cent) and because no longer need to be near the office (seven per cent) as their reasons.

In contrast only nine per cent of those questioned are intending to relocate to a major city for a job or better amenities in the next 12 months.

When asked what the key factors of a new home are now, compared to before Covid-19, there were some significant shifts, where our sense of community has increased – and so has our desire for connectivity.

Schools, crime rate, local amenities and being close to family are more important to our home buying decisions now than they were pre-Covid, according to the research – highlighting an increased focus on community in choosing a new home.

In contrast, commute time and proximity to travel hubs have declined in importance as more people accept home working will be the norm long term.

Among the top five most important factors when moving to a new home is now good internet/broadband connectivity (up from 22 per cent to 26 per cent). In fact, internet connectivity is now such a crucial factor in our household set up that

- 75 per cent of house hunters would not buy a home if they knew that the internet connectivity was poor.
- And three quarters (75 per cent) would be more inclined to buy a house that was full fibre enabled and would also pay on average £1,514 more for a full fibre enabled house – offering faster and more reliable internet connectivity – increasing property value by approximately 0.6% of the average UK house price.
- 91% would rate the consistency and reliability of their broadband connectivity as more important than ever in the home-buying process. Such is the importance of reliable internet connectivity, nearly eight in 10 (79%) homebuyers are calling for housing developers and estate agents to offer broadband quality tests before they move in so this can be factored into the decision-making process.

TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING ACT 1990 (AMENDED BY THE LOCALISM ACT 2011)

NEIGHBOURHOOD DEVELOPMENT PLANNING (GENERAL) REGULATIONS 2012 (as amended): CONSULTATION UNDER REGULATION 16 OF THE NEIGHBOURHOOD PLANNING (GENERAL) REGULATIONS 2012

SUBMISSION OF THE FOLLOWING NEIGHBOURHOOD DEVELOPMENT PLANS:

- RINGSTEAD NEIGHBOURHOOD DEVELOPMENT PLAN 2011-2031 (PARISH OF RINGSTEAD)
- HARGRAVE NEIGHBOURHOOD DEVELOPMENT PLAN 2011-2031 (PARISH OF HARGRAVE)

Notice is given that the following draft neighbourhood development plans have been submitted to the local planning authority for independent examination under Regulation 15 of the Neighbourhood Planning (General) Regulations 2012 (as amended).

- Ringstead Neighbourhood Development Plan 2011-2031 (submitted by Ringstead Parish Council, 10 February 2021).
- Hargrave Neighbourhood Development Plan 2011-2031 (submitted by Hargrave Parish Council, 23 April 2021).

The 'plan proposals'

In accordance with Regulation 16, the local planning authority is now consulting upon the draft Ringstead and Hargrave Neighbourhood Plans. Comments are invited, regarding whether these 'plan proposals', as submitted under Regulation 15 fulfil the "basic conditions", as required by paragraph 8 (1) (a) (2) of Schedule 4B to the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 (inserted by the Localism Act 2011).

The plan proposals, as submitted, comprise the following documents:

- A map identifying the area to which the proposed neighbourhood development plan relates;
- A consultation statement;
- The proposed neighbourhood development plan;
- A statement (the "Basic Conditions Statement") explaining how the proposed neighbourhood development plan meets the requirements of paragraph 8 of Schedule 4B to the Town and Country Planning Act 1990.

The "basic conditions"

Representations received under Regulation 16 regarding the plan proposal will be forwarded to appointed examiners, who will assess the Ringstead and Hargrave Neighbourhood Development Plans and supporting documents against the "basic conditions".

These require that each plan:

1. Has regard to national policy and guidance from the Secretary of State;
2. Contributes to sustainable development;
3. Is in general conformity with the strategic policy of the development plan for the area or any part of that area;
4. Does not breach or is otherwise compatible with retained EU obligations – this includes the SEA Directive of 2001/42/EC; and that -
5. The making of the Neighbourhood Development Plan is not likely to have a significant effect on a European site (as defined in the Conservation of Habitats and Species Regulations 2017, either alone or in combination with other plans or projects).

Submitting representations under Regulation 16

Comments are sought as to whether or not each of the plan proposals (Ringstead and Hargrave Neighbourhood Plans and supporting documentation for each) fulfil the "basic conditions".

The consultation for both Neighbourhood Plans will run from 17 May 2021 – 28 June 2021, inclusive.

The Smart Survey consultation tool will be used to manage these consultations to enable more efficient processing and management of representations. Further information regarding responding to the consultation is available through the Neighbourhood Planning web page of the legacy East Northamptonshire Council: www.east-northamptonshire.gov.uk/neighbourhoodplanning.

Representations should be made no later than 4pm on Monday 28 June 2021

NOTE: Due to the ongoing Covid-19 National Pandemic restrictions, hard copies of these consultation documents will not be available to view at the Council's Contact Centres or Public Libraries.

OUNDLE TENNIS CLUB OFFERS DISCOUNT ON ANNUAL MEMBERSHIP

Oundle Tennis Club has been a hive of activity since play restarted at the end of March. Judged to be the sport with the lowest risk of catching coronavirus, club membership and usage has increased since the beginning of the pandemic and to encourage more people to pick up a racquet and play, the Club is offering an up to 30% discount on annual membership until the end of June.

PHOTOGRAPHY: FRAN MORGAN

The Club offers five full-size and two mini courts. A schedule of extensive upgrade work has recently been completed and all of the full-size courts have free-to-use floodlights which allow play until 9.30pm each night.

A busy coaching programme of group and individual lessons as well as junior tennis camps led by Level 4 LTA CCA Performance Coach, James Muir, provide an opportunity for players of all ages and abilities to improve their game. Regular social club sessions, junior and senior club tournaments, a busy singles ladder and doubles entry in local leagues offer play throughout the year. Members can also book courts to play in their own time, use the ball machine or bring a guest along for a small fee.

"Tennis is a fantastic sport. As well as being good exercise (burning up to 1,000 calories per hour!), it can be as social or as competitive as you choose," said Jason Atkinson, Club Chairman. "Oundle Tennis Club provides great facilities and a range of opportunities to play. Contact us to arrange a trial session, or sign up through our website. We look forward to seeing you on court!"

The membership discount offer runs until the end of June. All details are available on the website, or the contact details below can be used to arrange a visit or to answer questions.
